How To See Art While Quarantined At Home

With museums shuttered, art fairs canceled, and galleries closing their doors due to the rapid spread of COVID-19 around the world, seeing art isn't as easy as it once was, but the multitude of institutions, art spaces, and fairs are finding digital alternatives to viewing art in person. Here are some of the art offerings online that you can view while quarantined at home.

Sean Kelly Develops Daily Programming

Each day, Sean Kelly will feature programming to entertain, enlighten, and educate visitors about the artists on their roster. Tuesdays will bring you inside artists' studios; Wednesdays will take you through a deep dive of one work, going through its history and backstory. Thursdays will look back at the gallery's own 30-year history through past exhibitions, projects, and performances. Each Friday, the gallery will present a film by one of its artists for 24 hours on Vimeo. Click here for more information.
